

County Board To Form Industrial Group To Help Economic Situation

Brown Reports Road Project Being Held Up

The Saline County Board of Supervisors took action Thursday to try to help bolster the lagging economy in this county.

The board passed unanimously a motion made by Ewell Winkelman, Harrisburg, that an industrial planning committee be named from the board to work with other groups in an effort to alleviate the economic situation in the county and to report back to the board.

"Our economy is in bad shape, with industry leaving us," Winkelman said, pointing to mines that closed recently and to one that only closed this week.

"I believe the county board of supervisors could and should be instrumental in working with other groups to bring in industry," he stated. "I am for a unified effort by everybody."

Road Project Held Up

Another resolution passed was by Dr. John D. Slighom, Harrisburg, who proposed that parliamentary procedure as outlined in Robert's Rules of Order be the procedure for the board to follow at its meetings.

Some members spoke in favor of getting a definite set of rules to govern the action of the group while others said they believed such procedure might add to confusion. On the vote the measure passed. A committee will be named to work on the matter.

R. D. Brown, county superintendent of highways, told the board that failure to secure right-of-way was holding up the road scheduled to be built east of Eldorado.

"This is all taxpayers' money to be used and I can't see giving any elaborate concessions to any individuals," he declared.

He added that $2,500 already had been spent for engineering and that the road had been approved by the state.

"It's a question of getting right-of-way," he commented.

Approve Overtime Pay

Mr. Brown said that about three persons holding about 60 per cent of the right-of-way needed are affecting the project.

By a partisan vote of 10 to 9 the board voted to pay overtime to Nelson Berry and Irene Mosier for work on the tax books. Advocates of paying the money said the extra work has been needed

New Highway Maps Available

Illinois' official 1957 highway map, issued jointly by Gov. William G. Stratton and Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, is now available for distribution.

The Daily Register has copies available which will be given upon request as long as the supply lasts. The 1957 map has a completely "new look" for the first time since 1932.

The base of the 1957 map has been outlined by copying from a composite of the county general highway maps that were reduced to approximately one-twelfth of the original size, thus providing an accurate road network.

The color system is in general the same as on previous maps: U. S. Highways in red and two-lane or wider pavement in black; however, the single-lane pavement and bituminous roads are shown in blue, which makes them subordinate to paved roads. Expressways are distinguished from other four-lane pavement.

Airports which have scheduled service are distinguished from other commercial and municipal airports. Restricted landing areas other than military fields do not appear on the state map. Picnic grounds are shown by means of a small red triangle. State parks and memorials which have camp sites are indicated by a different symbol than those without camp sites.

Kenneth Baker Horning Promoted to Rank of Full Professor at U. of Oklahoma

Kenneth Baker Horning, formerly of Harrisburg, has recently been promoted to the rank of full professor (from the rank of associate professor) in the Department of Business Communication at the University of Oklahoma at Norman.

Professor Horning has been on the staff of Oklahoma for 12 years, formerly teaching at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., and at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, Va.

Professor Horning received his Bachelor of Science degree in Journalism from the University of Illinois in Journalism in 1938, and his Master of Arts from Lehigh University in English in 1940. During World War 2, he was associated with the Office of Scientific Research and Development, working with the Submarine Base at New London, Conn.

Also during the past month Professor Horning has been reappointed chairman of his department for another two years, which will make a total of six years in that capacity. On May 11 he was initiated as an honorary member of Beta Gamma Sigma, which is an honorary fraternity in the field of Business Administration. It is comparable to Phi Beta Kappa in the field of liberal arts.

In December of 1956 Professor Horning completed a year's term as national president of the American Business Writing Association, the national professional organization of college teachers of business writing. He is the author of more than 30 magazine articles on the subject of business writing, the last

Key Club Officers Are Installed at HTHS at Annual Parents' Banquet

The annual parents' banquet of the Harrisburg Township high school chapter of the Key Club, sponsored by the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, was held at Wesley Center Thursday evening and the program was highlighted by the installation of new officers and members, an inspiring talk by Eltis Henson, HTHS principal, and musical entertainment by members of the Key club.

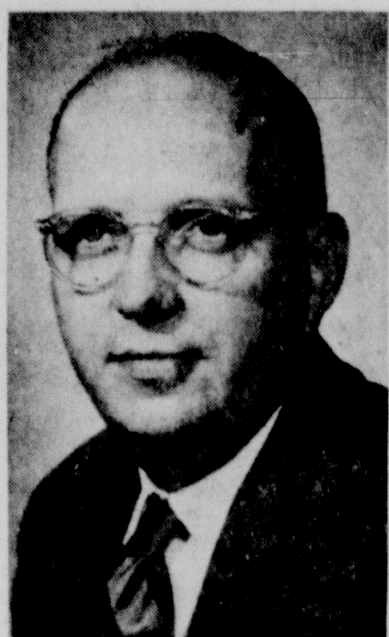

Newly installed officers are Eddie Quade, president; Donnie Beggs, vice president; Jon Frohock, secretary; Edward Bowles, treasurer. Quade has also been elected lieutenant governor of Division 10.

Mr. Henson, stressing the thought "It doesn't make much difference where you are—the important thing is in what direction are you headed," urged the Key club members to continue their education just as far as possible.

Noting that keys are made to open locks, Mr. Henson stated there are "keys" that will open the door to useful, happy, successful lives and listed five "keys" for consideration.

1. See things as they really are;
2. Dream of things as they might be;
3. Prepare for life, learn how to do things and learn the "whys";
4. Be willing to work;
5. Don't easily become discouraged.

"It's your life, make it worthwhile. Don't take life as you find it, shape it to meet your needs. Have a goal, then bend your efforts toward that goal," Mr. Henson

Not Interested in Vice Presidency, Stratton Says

Governor Does Not Close Door on Possible Senate Race

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton said flatly today he is not interested in running for vice president of the United States in 1960.

But he did not close the door on the possibility of running for the U. S. Senate, or even an unprecedented third term as governor.

"I'm not a candidate for vice president, I haven't been and I don't ever expect to be," Stratton said.

On the possibility of his running for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Paul H. Douglas, however, Stratton said, "I wouldn't make quite as positive a statement there." He also declined to make a positive statement concerning a third term as governor.

Stratton made the comments at his news conference in reply to questions about a statement made by Illinois Republican National Committeeman Morton H. Hollingsworth that he would be "pleased" to see Stratton as the party's vice presidential candidate in 1960.

The governor also said he had worked out a plan for getting 500 additional state police on the highways within 90 days after his state police increase bill goes into effect.

The bill, already through the House, is drawn to take effect July 1. Stratton said the additional state police would be recruited and trained at two schools, one at Springfield and the other at the University of Illinois at Champaign.

The training program takes three weeks, and he said the full 500 men would be on the highways helping enforce his new speed limit law within 90 days after July 1.

Lynch, district manager for the telephone company, said there has been a great demand for colored telephones in Harrisburg. In the last 14 months, approximately 100 colored telephones have been placed in residences and various businesses.

To Help Communities

Senate Approves Bill for U. I. Aid in Problems of Aged People

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois lawmakers had quit for the week today to catch their breaths and compose their minds before tackling another four days of oratory, roll calls, committee meetings and the endless reading of bills.

Both the Senate and House, however, managed to accomplish some work Thursday before calling it a week. The Senate set out to launch another attack on the problems of the aged and aging in Illinois.

It did so by passing a bill to begin a new program at the University of Illinois for the benefit of elderly people. The bill would create a gerontological committee at U of I to aid local communities with the problems of the aging, to set up training classes, to conduct research in the field, and to study the feasibility of establishing a permanent center at the university for long term work on the problems of aging.

The bill would appropriate $96,000 for the beginning program. Another bill, which would extend the life of a legislative study commission on problems of the aged and aging, was also passed. Both now go to the House.

Increase Judges' Salaries
The Senate similarly passed another bill increasing the salaries of county judges on a population

American Legion, Auxiliary Poppy Day on May 25

Poppies will bloom on coat lapels and women's dresses all over the state Saturday, May 25, American Legion Poppy Day in Illinois.

The little red cloth flower that you wear on Poppy Day has been made by some veteran in a hospital bed. Perhaps he is one of those who has been in a veteran hospital for many years, never recovered from the wounds he received fighting for our country. Or, maybe he had to have help from his comrades because he is one of those who cannot see to push the small green stem through the red petal. He may be using only one arm to do his work.

But the veterans in the hospitals don't mind the work. They are paid for the poppies they make by the American Legion. This is the only chance many of them have to earn while bedridden, to buy something for their wives and children.

All money raised in the sale of American Legion poppies goes to help these men. With the coins you put in the Poppy Container you are buying them hope and aid.

American Legion. Auxiliary members are asked to give at least one hour to selling poppies during the day on May 25.

Child's Hand Disappears in Sifting Sand

Last Rites of Catholic Church Are Administered

MANORVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—The last rites of the Roman Catholic Church were administered today to 7-year-old Benny Hooper, trapped for 16 1/2 hours in a 21-foot well shaft.

Hope for the child's life faded at noon as his hand—the only part which had been visible from the top of the shaft—disappeared under sand shifting from the sides of the well.

But even as Father Paul Mastalski made the sign of the cross to begin the brief ceremony, workers continued frantic efforts to tunnel to the child's side from another shaft some 15 feet away.

They attempted to drive three-foot lengths of pipe through a lateral tunnel with hydraulic pumps, but were hampered by the crumbling sand of the wall supporting the pumps. Earlier efforts to shore the lateral tunnel with wood had failed.

Benny fell into the well shaft at 8 o'clock Thursday night. His father had just stopped drilling the hole and had warned the boy and a playmate to stay away from it.

Chances Grow Slim

The boy's hand, stretched above his head in the shaft, which narrowed to about 10 inches at the point where he was trapped, was last seen to move at 6 a. m. Dr. Joseph H. Kris, who kept an all-night vigil directing a flow of oxygen to the child, and firemen said they believed Benny was alive at that time.

As the fine sand began sifting down, Kris said at 10:30 a. m. the child had only a 20 per cent chance of being alive and "each moment the chances grow slimmer."

During the morning a large, industrial-type vacuum cleaner was brought to the scene to suck out sand from above the youngster. But the doctor and the fire department refused to permit its use, fearing it would remove oxygen and loosen more sand.

The tragedy drew hundreds of persons to this small Long Island community about 70 miles from New York City.

Dad Blames Himself

Police were forced to erect an emergency fence around the back porch of the Hoopers' $10,000 ranch type home to keep the curious from disturbing the family. The boy's mother remained in the house throughout the morning with her other child, Wendy, 5, and close friends.

The father, Benjamin Hooper Sr., made occasional trips to talk briefly with rescuers. Friends said he continued to blame himself for the accident. He was only a few steps away from the hole when Benny's friend, Mike Molinaro, called that the child had fallen into it.

The boy's anguished father, a 30-year-old highway maintenance man, and a neighbor, Paul Palmeri, had just finished digging the well shaft and, with their backs to the hole, were putting together two lengths of pipe when they heard Benjamin scream.

The father grabbed a rope and dropped it into the shaft. But his son was unable to grasp it. The father then called a contractor friend, Joe Governali, who telephoned police, then hurried to the scene with a bucket crane and a crew of workmen.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
The Team Disintegrated
When Secretary Humphrey
Blasted The Budget; Budget
Is Now Back To Chaotic Days Before Charley Dawes; Southern Senators Protest Favoritism For Pan American Airlines.

WASHINGTON. — The amazing fact about the administration is that it forgot the lesson taught by an earlier Republican administration. It's the lesson that once the budget is fixed no one on the administration team tampers with it. If he does, he gets off the team.

The man who fixed the policy was Charles G. Dawes in the Harding administration. His work as director of the budget earned him the vice presidency of the United States.

Prior to Dawes, everyone tampered with the budget. The Congress pulled it one way, different members of the administration pulled it different ways, just as it's being pulled today. It was a free-for-all as it is today. Every cabinet member closest to Ike—cents worth.

Dawes decreed that cabinet members could all argue about the budget — privately — before the budget was fixed. But once it was fixed everyone stuck together. Every cabinet member, every bureaucrat fought on the same team against Congress to defend the budget.

Every Democratic and Republican President since that day (1921) carried on the Dawes system—until this winter. Then the cabinet member closest to Ike—
Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey—suddenly jumped on the budget. It was unprecedented.
Old-line bureau chiefs waited for Humphrey to be fired. Any previous President would have fired him.

But he wasn't fired. Instead,
Ike went to spend two weeks on Humphrey's Georgia plantation.
The result spread through government like the recording of an earthquake on a seismograph. It was an earthquake—government-wide.

For when the man closest to the President blasted the budget and continued to enjoy the President's close companionship, everyone else in government figured he could do it too. Even Mrs. Randolph Burgess, wife of the undersecretary of the Treasury, is now giving off on what should or should not be cut in the budget.

One day, Ike had a "team."
The next day he didn't have a team. He's right back to the chaotic budget days before pipe-smoking, Hell-and-Maria Charley Dawes decreed there should be no more inter-family bickering over the budget.

AIRLINE POLITICS

Much-loved Walter George, the venerable elder statesman from Georgia, is no longer a member of the Senate, but the other day he sat in on a highly important closed-door huddle. It was held in the Senate's Vandenberg room to protest against the proposed CAB award to Pan American Airways of a nonstop route from New York to Mexico City.

Those who attended the meeting were: Sens. Allen Ellender and Russell Long, La., Olin Johnston and Strom Thurmond, S. C., Willis Robertson, Va., all Democrats, plus representatives from Eastern Airlines.

"Eastern Airlines pioneered this route and built it up years before Pan American tried to get it," remarked Senator Long. "This idea of giving it to Pan American is the most incredible example of malfunction of government I have ever seen."
"The man probably responsible," said Senator Ellender, "is Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks. He's been the special friend of Pan American for some time."

Then lengthy discussion revolved around the fact that in 1946
the Civil Aeronautics Board awarded Eastern Airlines the profitable New York-Mexico City nonstop run. Eastern had pioneered the routes from New York and Boston to Atlanta, New Orleans, and Houston years before;
and it is customary to let the first operator of a route extend it further; also fly over the same route nonstop.

BEHIND THE MEXICANS

But despite the CAB award to Eastern Airlines, negotiations with Mexico bogged down. Senators at the closed-door discussion pointed out that Pan American was probably behind the impasse, since Pan Am owns 42 per cent of Mexico's CMA, and 20 per cent of a second Mexican line, Aero-naves.

"I have read the report of an investigator President Truman sent to Mexico to see why Eastern was not awarded this route," Senator Ellender told his colleagues,
"and he made it quite clear that Pan American was working through its Mexican subsidiaries to block Eastern."

Now, 11 years after the CAB awarded the New York-Mexico
City route to Eastern in 1946, a CAB examiner has recommended that Pan American get this prize nonstop route.

Senators pointed out that what this really meant was that powerful Pan American Airways would operate two lines between Mexico City and New York. For, in return for the U. S. carrier which will operate between Mexico City and New York, a Mexican carrier gets the privilege of operating the same route.

And since Pan American owns 42 per cent of CMA and 20 per cent of Aeronaves, it will be acting with Mexico in operating the Mexican line as well as its own.
"It means that Pan Am will be operating two nonstop lines between Mexico and New York," said Senator Ellender.

The senators plan to go to the White House to protest personally to President Eisenhower.
Asked for his comments, Pan
American Vice President Sam

Prior told this column: "This year Pan American celebrated its 28th anniversary of pioneering air service between the United States and Mexico. For the first 13 years, Pan Am was the sole U.
S. flag airline servicing Mexico.
In contrast, Eastern is not operating and has never operated between any part of the United States and Mexico. It never has carried a single passenger, pound of cargo, or an airmail letter to any part of Mexico."

DENTAL PROGRAM

Due to the ending of the school year the dental examination part of the Dental program has been discontinued until the opening of the new school year. However the dental program will continue on a full time referral basis. This portion of the dental program mainly consists of home visits in regard to the conditions of your child's dental health.

Dental examinations have been carried on in 36 Saline, Gallatin and White county schools. The dental program under the direction of Dr. Charles Elder began January 1957. Since that date

6,194 children have received an examination by Dr. Elder. Out of this number of children 3 out of 4 were referred to the family dentist. There were 14,585 permanent adult cavities found. This was an average of 3.3 cavities per child referred to the family dentist. This examination did not include x-rays which will discover many hidden cavities unable to be seen by the mouth mirror examination.

The dental program is an additional health service provided by the Egyptian Health Department.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D. D.
(Written for NEA Service)

City noises range from the whir of motors to the din of steel pounding on steel. Even the scuffle of multitudes of feet and the cries of playing children break in on the quiet peace of solitary man.

Some folk become oblivious of the confusion. They adjust their ears, their minds, their nerves and their emotional reactions so that they do not feel the effects of the clatter of machines and the bustle of rapid movement.

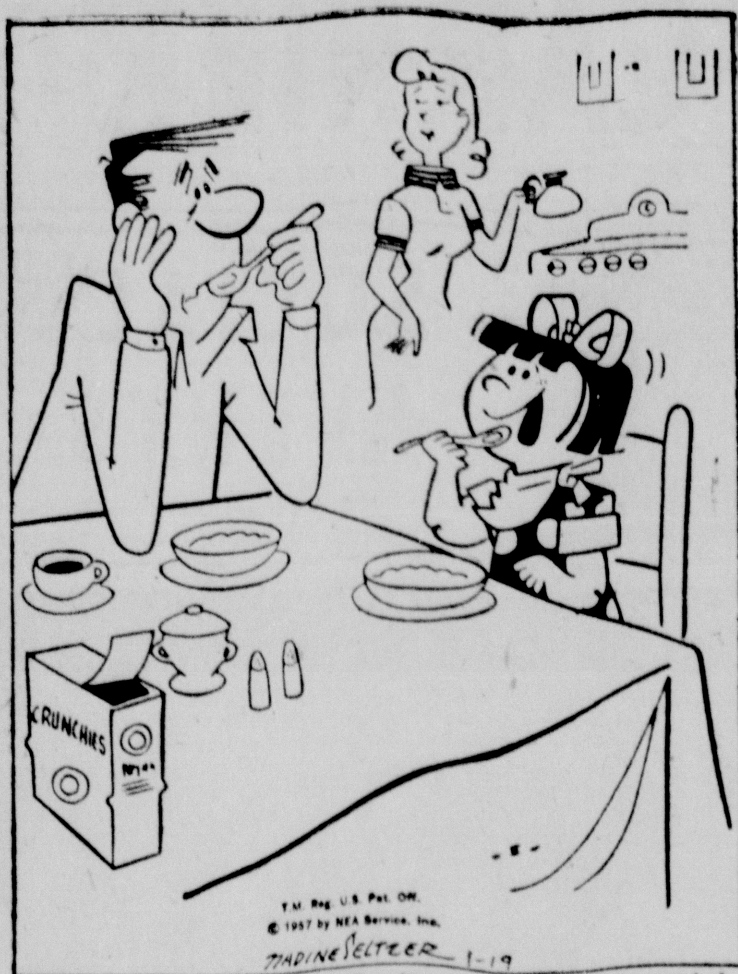

Others live in mental turmoil, and spiritual confusion because they do not go apart to commune with God. All of us need to learn our limitations and our ways to satisfy the needs of the spirit. We must not remain aloof from God because of the confusion around us, nor because we have closed our minds to reality.

We need a frequent quiet time with God in the ways best suited to our spiritual needs.

MAN OF THE WEEK In Carrier Mills

By BILL MELTON

Ken Hart, active in the business, civic and fraternal affairs of Carrier Mills for several years, is probably best known for his "trading."

He has been interested in old guns, knives, swords and coins for years and has been buying and trading to add to the collection for a long time. And if he happens to trade for something not exactly up in good condition, Ken has the ability and patience to work long hours at repairing the item.

He has owned and operated Harts News Stand in Carrier Mills since 1946, his active interest in Boy Scouting dates back some 15 years, he is a Mason and was worthy patron of the Order of Eastern Star three years and a member of the Carrier Mills Baptist church.

But despite all these activities, and interests Ken still finds time to trade and repair guns and other weapons.

Not long ago he sold several of his guns and at present the collection includes approximately 30. Probably the oldest gun is a French flintlock pistol, which Ken says dates back to the time of the French revolution.

But as the gun collection became less in number, the knife-type item increased and that collection is now more than 80 in number.

Ken, son of the late Joe Hart and Mrs. Carrie Hart, graduated from the Carrier Mills grade school in 1928 and from the Carrier Mills Community high school in 1932. During his high school days track was a major sport at CMCHS and Ken ran the half mile and also was a member of the 2-mile relay team.

Following graduation from high school Ken was employed in a grocery store, where he was working when he entered military service in Nov. 1941.

After a little more than four years of duty in World War II, mostly as an ordnance man attached to the Air Force, Ken was separated from active duty December, 1945, and returned to Carrier Mills. In a few months he purchased the news stand.

Kenneth Hart

Ken remained in the active Army Reserve following War II and in 1950 was recalled to service at the outbreak of the Korean action. He served 10 months with the reception center at Ft. Sheridan.

He and Mrs. Hart, the former Aline Wolfe, had purchased the news stand in 1946 and Mrs. Hart continued to operate the business while Ken was serving his second hitch of military service.

Ken, whose family "tree" has been growing in southern Illinois soil for generations, says his favorite hobby is exploring the hills and dales of Little Egypt.

"If I had my choice of a trip, I believe I would stay within 100 miles of Carrier Mills. Some of the most beautiful country and historic spots in the nation are to be found in southern Illinois and surrounding area," Ken declares.

"JUST WINDOW-SHOPPING? No," the spokesman of a property-touring couple was recently heard to say, "we're shopping for an entire house!" Jocular as this remark may have been, it is significant. More and more, families in all walks of life are deciding that owning a home is an attainable goal. How so? One important factor is the availability of sound, economical bank financing. In 1956 alone, America's banks extended over $7 billion in mortgage loans to help families realize the dream of ownership.

AD-MO-LAS

Free-Flowing Meal for Easy
Handling and Mixing
Easy to Use — Adds Appetite Appeal to All Rations!

Each 50 pound bag of AD-MO-LAS contains 30 pounds of blackstrap molasses blended into a highly absorbent carrier so that it is easy to handle and mix with feeds. Even though all molasses feeds show a certain amount of compaction after shipping and stacking, AD-MO-LAS breaks up easily into a free flowing meal.

FOR DAIRY COWS, BEEF CATTLE, HOGS and SHEEP

DAIRY COWS

AD-MO-LAS greatly increases the palatability of dairy feeds causing greater feed consumption. It stimulates rumen activity and in addition, greatly increases water consumption.

BEEF CATTLE

Molasses-fed steers as a rule "grade out" higher than those receiving no molasses. AD-MO-LAS is noted for the "top finish" or "bloom" it produces. It is also a valuable feed adjunct that increases feed and water consumption so that more economical gains result.

HOGS

AD-MO-LAS is a source of minerals and vitamins vitally needed by hogs. In addition to its appetizing effect in swine rations it steps up feed and water intake and results in faster and more economical gains.

SHEEP

AD-MO-LAS is valuable to the market lamb producer as an appetizer to stimulate feed consumption which in turn increases the rate of gain. It is easy and economical to include it in the ration and regular use will increase lamb profits.

District State Farm Insurance Agency Honored at Giant City Meeting

The Southern Illinois district agency for State Farm Insurance companies was honored Tuesday evening with a steak dinner for each of the agents and their wives along with the district manager and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Leukering. The dinner was held at Giant City State Park Lodge and was attended also by the agents and their wives from the Mt. Vernon district and the Litchfield district. The honors were earned by Mr. Leukering's district for having won the first heat of a 90 day contest between the three districts based on total sales points.

R. D. Danielson, Illinois State Director, host to the agents and their wives of the winning district, complimented the agents on their fine job during the month of April. The evening program was in charge of Mr. Leukering. He had the wife of the highest producing agent in each district crowned "Queen for the Month" and charged her with the responsibility of retaining her throne during May, or crowning her successor at the next dinner meeting to be held early in June. Each of the women were presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers as a personal gift from Mr. Leukering. The Queen from the Southern Illinois district was Mrs. Robert Bahr of Carbondale. The other two women were Mrs. Harold Lundborg of Sandoval and Mrs. Marion Sugg of Litchfield.

Billy Graham Well Pleased At Big Turnout

NEW YORK AP — Evangelist Billy Graham said Thursday night his crusade against New York's crime and sin already appears to be more successful than any campaign he has ever undertaken. He said the New York Crusade is backed by "probably the greatest concentration of prayer in the history of the Christian Church."

"People the world over are praying for the success of this crusade," he said. "This is the one everyone is interested in. I can feel their prayers."

Graham's second night audience at Madison Square Garden was logged by Garden officials at 13,000, a drop of 5,500 from the near capacity gathering at opening night. But Graham said he thought it was proportionately a record for a second night. "It always drops off the second night and then it gathers momentum," he said.

The energetic evangelist said he was so encouraged by the turnout for his war on sin that he expects to extend it well beyond the originally planned six weeks. He said he hoped to hold a giant outdoor meeting for 100,000 persons this fall in Yankee Stadium or the Polo Grounds.

Some 545 "inquirers" made "decisions for Christ" Thursday night after hearing Graham in a fiery indictment of "this morally sick world." The handsome, 38-year-old crusader dropped some of the restraint of his previous night's sermon, but the address still was somewhat short of the "hell fire and brimstone" of an old-fashioned revival meeting.

29 Deaths in Violent Storms

By United Press
Floods followed a flurry of deadly tornadoes in the southwest storm belt today, wreaking a new round of destruction through parts of Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

A United Press count showed at least 29 persons killed in violent weather during the past two days. Twenty of the victims were found in the tornado-smashed debris of Silverton, Tex.

Nine of the 80 persons injured in the Silverton twister Wednesday night remained in critical condition. Twenty-five homes were destroyed and 30 others were damaged.

Floodwaters in the wake of five to seven-inch rains rolled through Kansas and Oklahoma, killing a 14-year-old boy who drowned Thursday night while swimming in a flood-swollen creek in southeast Wichita.

Tells GOP Parley Must Not Weaken Ourselves, Ike

WASHINGTON AP—President Eisenhower said today "we must not weaken ourselves militarily or destroy our leadership in the free world . . . in our desire to reduce our own tax burden."

"To make such an attempt," he said in a telephoned message to a Republican regional conference at Cincinnati, Ohio, "could prove the most costly mistake of our entire national life."

The President again defended his record $1,800,000,000 peacetime spending budget and prodded Congress to enact his proposals on federal aid to schools, civil rights and higher postal rates.

"Peace will be maintained only by unrelenting day-by-day sacrifice," he said. "Any sound political program for America must have this determination as its foundation stone . . ."

"To date, this program has made little progress in Congress. Unless that body begins to act on it soon, the country and our people will be the poorer."

The President spoke as key senators vowed to defend his $36,200,000,000 defense budget against a possible House slash of $2,500,000,000. The senators, who did not wish to be identified by name, foresaw the possibility of trimming the House cut to around one billion dollars.

Eisenhower's message was addressed to Republican leaders from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri and West Virginia who gathered at Cincinnati for the fifth GOP regional conference sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

The Rare Adventure

by BERNARD FERGUSON

Copr. 1954 by Bernard Edward Fergusson. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

XX

Mollie and Allan heard Brisebarre's proclamation sounded hollowly through the megaphone a few minutes after he had left them. They had strolled down to a corner of the garden, away from the table where they had eaten their odd little breakfast and drunk their soup and coffee. The die was cast, and they were going to be separated for the first time since leaving Larg less than a fortnight before, and separated in a fashion that they had not known since the days of the war.

It was twenty minutes before an answer came; and when it came it was not in the voice which Allan had half expected to hear, the beautiful voice which had called across, roof to roof, in answer to Billon's challenge, just over three hours before, though it seemed a long three hours indeed. It came in a high-pitched, throaty gabble; in a voice not of authority, but of some underling nervously delivering a message committed to it by authority. It was evident that even Brisebarre was at some loss to understand it, for they heard him question it twice before he was satisfied. And then they heard his feet upon the stairs. "It is arranged," he said. "They managed to slip a small insult into their reply, but it was one which I could ignore without loss of dignity."

"What was it?" asked Allan. "Something to the effect that the family of Al Merhametsiz needed no guidance from the French on how to receive their distinguished kinsman," said Brisebarre with a laugh.

"Well!" said Allan, feeling his pockets, and taking a mental roll-call of handkerchief, money, cigarettes. "Here we go. I don't suppose I shall be able to communicate with you, but if I can I will. I'll try and get back before dark, anyway; but if I don't, don't let my wife get fussed."

"She is a remarkable lady, Colonel."

In 1941, when Allan was still with the Transjordan Frontier Force, he had found himself fighting in a part of Syria which he had always believed himself to know well; and he had been astonished to find how little he really knew it when he came to fight over it. Now, as he walked out of the Gendarmerie, and despite his patrol of the previous evening, he discovered how little his mind had retained of the environs of the hotel. It was an odd feeling to walk boldly down the street which had been the scene of battle only a few hours before. He went straight from the Gendarmerie door to the middle of the road before turning left, and although he kept his eyes skinned he saw no sign of any insurgents for the first 50 yards. He had passed beyond the hospital and drawn close to the hotel before he saw his first human being; and from that moment it was as though he had penetrated behind a film set, for all was different. Groups of armed men stood in the lee of buildings and garden walls.

He kept on walking, however. He had made it quite clear in the proclamation which he had caused Brisebarre to make through the megaphone that he would walk along the Areg road. To do otherwise now would mean loss of dignity.

It was at the entrance to the hotel gardens that he heard his name called. "Good morning, Colonel Larg!"

He stopped negligently, taking care to seem as casual as possible, and turning his head, not too sharply, in the direction of the voice; and there, at the door of the hotel 30 yards up the garden, stood, as he half expected, Jules Fernana the manger.

"Good morning, Monsieur Fernana," he said.

"Will you come in here?" Allan hesitated. This might well be the rendezvous where he was expected—none more likely, in fact; but it was still faintly possible that this might be mere hospitality, or intended to be taken as such. Fernana dispelled any doubt by saying:

"You are expected, of course." Allan couldn't resist saying, as the distance between him and Fernana lessened:

"I'm afraid I forgot to cancel my room!"

Fernana laughed, and said, "But I hope you won't cancel it. We look forward to seeing you and Madame back here, as guests of the hotel."

"That's very nice of you."

"Now," said Fernana, turning into the dining room, "here are the friends who have come to meet you. My brother you have met already at Areg el Kebir." Rising from a group of tables in the dining room were four men. One was Camille, whose relationship to Jules was unmistakable. The features were much the same, except that where Jules' face was round and smiling, Camille's was sardonic and sardonic. The second

Amoma Class Holds Meeting in Church

The members of the Amoma class of the Galatia Baptist church entertained their families in the church basement, Friday evening. The hostess, Mrs. Lillie Stevens, opened the meeting with a scripture reading from Galatians 3:1-8. Homer Gunter led in prayer.

During the class business meeting, the gentlemen cleaned the new classrooms and were rewarded with refreshments of sandwiches, pie, coffee, and tea.

Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. Bill James and children, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Gunter and chilman, the oldest of the group, was a benevolent white-bearded Father Christmas, to all appearance a noble Arab patriarch but presumably a Berber. He was introduced as Kassim Mourali.

The third was another Berber, a young man, who was introduced as Ruhi ben Ishak. Like Kassim, he wore Arab dress of good quality, with a gold aghal or headband, and a handsome dagger hanging from his belt. He had a well-bred, eager, sensitive face, with a black moustache above a strong mouth.

The fourth man, Shimoun, ben Shimoun, though also wearing what looked like Arab dress, was Jewish in appearance, a fine-looking, resolute type of man, with a clever face and eyes. He greeted Allan in French.

Nagasaki Reports Third Fatality From 1945 A-Blast

NAGASAKI, Japan (AP) — Atom bombed Nagasaki today reported its third fatality this year from the nuclear blast on Aug. 9, 1945. He was Masaji Hamazato, 64, a village master, who died Thursday morning in the Nagasaki University Hospital. Hamazato was an instructor in the Mitsubishi Trade School at Nagasaki, 2 1/2 miles from the site of the A-bomb blast. He suffered cuts from broken glass. After complaining of stomach trouble and falling hair for two months, he apparently recovered. He served two terms as village master and appeared in the best of health. But rashes broke out on his body this year and he entered the hospital last month.

when it was found he was suffering from an excessive count of white corpuscles in his blood.

The Doctor Was a 'Rag Wheel' Boy

JOHN W. ALLEN Southern Illinois University We often had wondered about the strange and seldom used designation of "rag wheel" boy. An explanation of the term is found in a book, "The Life and Works of F. F. Johnson, M.D.," recently given to us at Harrisburg. This book is a unique blend of autobiography, medical information and moralizing stories. In it the author describes the work of a rag wheel boy, which was a job he held at the age of 10.

Before the Johnson family moved to Illinois the father bought and operated a water mill near Lebanon, Tennessee. It was necessary to have someone care for the bolting or "sifting" device, otherwise the "rag wheel." This became the son's task and allowed him ever afterward to refer to himself, evidently with pride, as a "rag wheel" boy. The rag wheel was a cylinder covered with closely woven bolting cloth and was operated with a hand crank. Almost every old-time grist mill had one. The cylinder operated on a horizontal axle with one end very slightly elevated. Into the higher end the operator placed the freshly ground grist with one hand, meanwhile turning the crank with the other. The flour or meal would fall thru the bolting cloth into a trough or bin and the larger bits of bran would pass to the lower end of the cylinder and fall into another container. Thus the flour and meal were "sifted."

The doctor tells us that the first school he attended was a "blab" school held in the sideroom of a dwelling in Lebanon. He also tells that he sometimes used the blab method in schools he taught at Raleigh after coming to Illinois. From Lebanon, Johnson "went away" to school, first to an academy six miles from his home and next to a school 30 miles away. In each case he would commute on week ends by foot. When 21 years old Johnson and a brother came to a farm near Raleigh. The brother farmed while F. F. taught a subscription school in one room of their double log house. The next year he was teacher in the "free school" at Raleigh at a salary of $24 a month. The low log schoolhouse was about 16 by 16 feet, puncheon floor, slab benches, stick and clay chimney, one door, and no ceiling. Its one window was made of 8 by 10 glass set in a space where a "writing desk" had been removed. The roof was of badly curled clapboards three feet long, "evidently laid in the full of the moon."

While teaching Johnson also studied medicine under the direction of Dr. V. Rathbone and clerked in a drug store the doctor had. Two years later F. F. attended "the winter term" of a medical school in Louisville, Kentucky. In the spring he returned to Raleigh and began to practice medicine, with one young man "reading medicine" under him. A year later Johnson decided to complete his medical training and spent one term at Philadelphia, "the medical hub" of the country. Assistant Army Surgeon After returning from his sojourn in Philadelphia he engaged in teaching, farming and the practice of medicine until the outbreak of the Civil War. When a local company was recruited Johnson enlisted and left Raleigh on August 15, 1861. After being examined by a medical board, he was appointed Assistant Army Surgeon and stationed at Cairo.

Some of his comments concerning conditions at the camp in Cairo are vivid. He tells of the filthy situation there and of the repulsive conditions resulting from a lack of spittoons for the 300 men from the regiment, sick with measles and resulting complications. He tells that the chaplain, ignoring usual procedures, stormed headquarters and secured enough tin pans to fill the spittoon deficiency. He also tells of the "bitter cold" night of January 30, 1862, when the regiment on a march into Kentucky was forced to camp with eight inches of snow on the ground and no tents. One fortunate group found a spade and dug a "grave," now termed a "fox hole," in which to sleep. The next day was warmer and "sloshy." That night they slept on brush piles. He tells how men attached long ropes to cannons and dragged them from bogs when the horses mired, and how he often refilled his canteen with whiskey and doled it out to those on the verge of collapse, though he was a consistent temperance advocate. His description of mass burials after Henry and Donelson lend reality to war's carnage. Upon his release from military service he returned to Raleigh and was elected county superintendent of schools, serving eight years. His comments concerning schools and his reports to the state superintendent's office are interesting. Then, as now, it was difficult to find qualified teachers. His efforts to hold a county institute elicited little response until he threatened to revoke the certificates of those failing to cooperate. Under this duress a one-week institute was held at Harrisburg. Johnson's life surely was not a dull one. When very young he survived an attack of Asiatic cholera. He narrowly escaped numerous accidents, became a "rag wheel" boy, farmhand, teacher, country doctor, army surgeon, county superintendent of schools, druggist, an ordained minister, and a militant advocate of the Seven Day Baptists. He lived to be a very old man, spending his latter years in Stonefort.

Small Field For Preakness

BALTIMORE — Calumet Farm's Iron Liege, the Kentucky Derby winner, headed the probable lineup when the entry box for Saturday's $100,000 added Preakness Stakes closed today for the second of the Triple Crown classics.

Expected to round out the seven-horse field were Wheatley Stable's Bold Ruler, Clifford Lusk's Federal Hill, Roslyn Farm's In-swept, Mrs. Jules Schwartz' Nah Hiss, Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs' Promised Land and D. M. Stable's Inside Tract.

Iron Liege, Bold Ruler, the beaten Kentucky Derby favorite, and Federal Hill, the Kentucky Derby pacesetter, dominated the small field. The others did not run in the Churchill Downs classic two weeks ago.

Bloom, New Trier Rated 1-2 In State Meet

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Fourteen-agers defend their prep titles at the two-day 63rd annual Illinois interscholastic track and field championships beginning today, but observers rate the team fight a one-two affair with 1956 champion Bloom Township in the No. 1 spot.

Bloom qualified 16 individuals and two relay teams for the state meet. Its nearest challenger, New Trier of Winnetka, placed 12.

In district competition, Bloom's Trojans won every event but the mile, which they did not enter. New Trier, however, received what may prove a severe blow when hurdler Tom Kendall pulled up with a strained muscle and did not qualify for the state meet.

Two of the four individual champions attempting to recapture their crowns are from Bloom: LeRoy Jackson won the 100-yard dash year and Fred Macklin won the broad jump.

The other two returning titlists are Bill Brown of Mendota, winner of last year's shot put title, and Larry Mackey of Urbana, pole vault champion.

Although the four titlists are returning, observers said there was little chance that many records would fall at this year's meet because district times were poor.

The lone state record which may be in jeopardy is the shot put mark, set in 1954 by Dick Winterbauer of Arlington Heights when he tossed the shot 57 feet, 2 3/8 inches.

Brown already has topped this mark by three inches during district competition and has bettered the mark by as much as six inches in unofficial competition.

Coal Belt Nine To Play VFW Team Saturday Night

The local Coal Belt baseball team will play the Harrisburg VFW baseball team on VFW field Saturday night at 8 p. m.

The Coal Belt team will open its league season next Friday night on VFW field against the Herrin entry in that league. The VFW team has already opened league play and have jumped off to a first place tie in the first two weeks of competition.

The Coal Belt team is made up of boys who haven't reached their 20th birthday before opening league game.

Harrisburg will have five members of the local high school squad on its roster. These players are Sam Vick, Zan Hefner, Jimmy Cummins, Trevor Whiteside, and Tommy Syers. Other players listed to play with the Coal Belt are Herb Parks, Charles Varber, Marty Fequay, Don Proctor, Leon Evans, Bob Hooven, Woolard and Jim Molinarolo.

The Coal Belt management plans on starting Vick, C. Molinarolo, P. Leon Evans, B. Jim Cummins, B. Trevor Whiteside, B. Bob Hooven, B. Trevor Whiteside, B. Marty Fequay, B. Don Proctor, B. Leon Evans, B. Bob Hooven, B. Woolard and B. Jim Molinarolo.

The VFW will have its regular lineup for this game with probably McNew, Stout and Wallace pitching three innings each. Dick Romonosky will catch, Bob Dallas will be on first, Don Stout on second, Flash Griffith on short-stop and Don Wallace or Harold Gulley on third. The outfield will be covered by Logsdon, Hay, Miller, Sisky, Givens and Feddeler. Feddeler or Tonazzi will probably start Sunday's game against Springerton.

Admission is 50 cents to this game. VFW and Coal Belt players are asked to be out by 6:30 for pre-game practice.

Pitchers Shine in Major League Tilts; Cardinal Rookie Blanks Phils, 5-0

By United Press
It's a slugger's era but those long-suffering pitchers have their days and nights, too. And a few more feats like those of Thursday will have the hitters asking who took the rabbit out of the lively ball.

—Bob Turley, a last-minute replacement for Whitey Ford, pitched a four-hitter and started the season's first triple play to give the New York Yankees a 3-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

—Sandy Koufax, 21-year-old bonus whiz, equalled the season's single game high of 13 strikeouts and yielded only four hits in powering the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

—Lindy McDaniel, 21-year-old St. Louis Cardinal bonus boy, also flipped a four-hitter and gained his first major league shutout with a 5-0 decision over the Philadelphia Phillies.

—Bob Friend, scoring his first victory since April 28, scattered seven hits in pitching the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 2-1 win over the Milwaukee Braves.
